(Number and Title) (Semester Hours)

The Writing-Across-The-Curriculum Process allows faculty to redesign courses to integrate write-to-learn and writing production tasks. Students should be engaged in a range of writing tasks as they achieve specific course objectives. Writing skills must be practiced and reinforced throughout the curriculum. The goal is to use writing as a means of learning course content and the expectations of writing in a particular profession, discipline, or concentration. Enrollment in a WAC course is limited to 25 students per class.

Please describe how the proposed course will do the following (list specific tasks and/or activities where appropriate and attach syllabus):

- 1: Enable students to improve their writing skills:
- 2: Facilitate the process of learning about a subject matter through writing.
- 3: Enable students to become acquainted with the kinds of writing associated with their chosen profession if applicable.
- 4: Ensure that 30% of the students' final grades are determined by the writing assignments.
